EBCDIC to ASCII Conversion Chart

EBCDIC is an 8-bit coding scheme. Valid hex values for an EBCDIC character are 00 to FF. The 16 rows in the chart below correspond to the first hex digit of an EBCDIC character (0 to F). The 16 columns correspond to the second hex digit of the character (0 to F). The contents of the cells shows the ASCII value (in hex) that corresponds to that EBCDIC character. For example, to convert the EBCDIC character C1 (which is the letter "A" in EBCDIC), look in the row labelled C, and in the column labelled 1. There you will find that the corresponding ASCII character is 41 (which is the letter "A" in ASCII).
